

AMERICANS CLOSING IN ON RABAU Base Declarations Act Repeal Spiked

Kimble's Second Attempt Fails By Five Votes

Soldier, Teacher Bills Approved

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Friday, March 10. (P)—Legislative action on the major purposes for which the special session was called was completed early today as the House approved the teacher bonus bill without a dissenting vote.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 9. (P)—The Assembly tonight enacted legislation liberalizing the state's soldier voting laws after the House had rejected a renewal of the attempt to tack on an amendment to repeal the Declaration of Intentions Act. Suspending the rules, the House completed final action on the companion bills after the minority floor leader, Delegate J. Milton Dick (R-Allegany), had sought unsuccessfully to attach the repealer as a rider. Dick's effort was soundly defeated, 89-24.

By DONALD SANDERS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 9. (P)—The General Assembly moved rapidly toward final adjournment tonight. The House Ways and Means committee voted to support the administration's substitute teacher bonus bill—the only measure which seemed likely to face trouble. The Senate, meanwhile, had virtually cleared its decks and marked time, waiting for additional measures to come from the House. Only one fight marked what was, in the main, a routine but busy day.

Lindsay Takes Floor
President James J. Lindsay, Jr. (D-Baltimore) turned over the Senate gavel to a colleague and took the floor to beat down a new attempt to repeal the Declaration of Intentions act. In the House Ways and Means committee session tonight, Chairman John C. Luber asked committee members whether they would support him in defeating amendments to the bonus bill which might be offered from the floor. "There was a chorus of 'what else can we do?' from county members. Several members indicated that their county commissioners had become resigned to acceptance of the administration proposal. The upper chamber gave its unanimous approval to the soldier vote bill, to the teacher and state employee bonus bills and to others of a lesser nature and sent them to the House.

The lower branch, meeting for its second session of the day, gave final approval of a bill to clarify the law governing commitment of insane persons and sent it to the Senate. Both houses passed on to final passage stage, frequently under suspension of the rules, most of the other bills in the administration-approved list.

Kimble and Lindsay Clash
Lindsay took the floor of the chamber, where he ruled as majority floor leader last year, a few minutes after Senator Robert B. Kimble (R-Allegany) announced that for the second time, in two days he would seek repeal of the declaration of Intentions act.

Lindsay waited quietly while Kimble urged the Senate to approve an order which would have forced the repealer out of the rules committee where it has been for several days. The Senate president then moved that the order be made a special order of business for 1 o'clock next Thursday—when presumably the assembly will have adjourned.

Nine Soldiers Facing Charge Of Aiding Nazis

Held in Escape Of 2 Prisoners

CAMP HALE, Colo., March 9. (P)—Camp Hale headquarters announced today that eight other soldiers were involved in the escape last month of Pfc. Dale Maple of San Diego, Calif., and two German prisoners of war, Maple and the Germans were arrested in Mexico and Maple faces trial by court martial on military charges similar to treason.

The announcement, which was released through Lt. William W. Garver, public relations officer, said four of the eight men, Pfc. Theophil J. Leonard, Stonewell, Tex.; Pfc. Paul A. Kismann, Erie, Pa.; Pfc. Eric B. Hoffeling, Mountain Lakes, N. J.; and Pfc. Friedrich W. Sierling, Chicago, "were directly implicated in the escape plot in a statement made by Maple following his apprehension in Mexico."

Three WACS Involved
During the investigation of the escapes it was discovered, headquarters said, that five members of the WAC detachment at Camp Hale had exchanged notes with German prisoners of war. Three of the WACs have been given sentences ranging from four to six months "confinement."

Of the four above named men, all except Hoffeling, the announcement said, have made admissions substantiating Maple's accusations as to themselves and it added that their admissions involved one or more of the other.

The other four men, whose names were withheld for the present, "were implicated, but less seriously, by Maple and are being held in confinement at Camp Hale pending further investigation into their activities."

Sergeant Faces Trial
One other soldier, Staff Sgt. Guido M. Gundisch, Milwaukee, Wis., is confined on charges of trafficking commercially with German prisoners of war and will be tried before an army court martial, the announcement said. He is not implicated, it continued, in the escape of the German prisoners of war, Erhard Schwichtenberg and Heinrich Kilikus whose getaway Maple was accused of aiding.

American Heavy Bombers Blast German Capital

Little Resistance Offered by Nazis

By GLADWIN HILL

LONDON, March 9. (P)—Strong forces of American heavy bombers with their fighter escort—roaring through a sky virtually free of German planes—attacked Berlin industrial targets for the second day in succession today and struck also against a plant in Central Germany in operations which cost only seven bombers and one fighter.

It was the fourth time in six days that the indomitable armada of United States bombers returned to bomb the fire-blackened German capital.

Losses Announced

An army communique announced the losses and said only "a few of our bombers reported minor encounters with the enemy." None of the crews of the participating Fortresses and Liberators or fighter pilots claimed to have destroyed a single German plane—a further index of the weakness of the Germans' air defenses.

Mustangs, Thunderbolts and Lightnings of the United States Eighth and Ninth Air Forces and RAF Mustangs of the Allied expeditionary air force provided the escort and support.

The communique declared "the targets were bombed through the overcast by means of scientific instruments." The industrial target in Central Germany which was hit was not specified in the war bulletin.

Bomber Lands in Sweden
Apparently referring to one of the seven missing bombers, the Swedish radio said an undamaged American bomber made a forced landing near Ronneby, a Baltic port near the southern tip of Sweden, and that the ten crew members, escaped injury. They were taken into military custody.

The attacks today probably constitute the first major operation ever conducted by the United States Eighth Air Force in which not a single Nazi plane was shot down. The raiders had very little to shoot at.

The communique said the American forces were "strong," but did not disclose the numbers involved. There was no official information to indicate that the armada was any larger than yesterday's—which was estimated today to be somewhat smaller than the fleet of 850 bombers which hit Berlin Monday.

Chaplin Appeals Paternity Case

LOS ANGELES, March 9. (P)—Charles Chaplin, movie comic, today appealed a superior court's action in declining to dismiss a paternity suit brought against him by Joan Berry. Chaplin argued the court exceeded its jurisdiction in failing to dismiss the suit in accordance with a stipulation entered into between attorneys for Miss Berry's mother, acting as guardian, and attorneys for Chaplin.

He asked the district court of appeals to dismiss the action. Under the stipulation opposing attorneys agreed that if blood tests indicated Chaplin was not the father of Miss Berry's child the suit would be dismissed.

Heated Dispute Marks Hearing On Voting Act

AFL, CIO, Involved In Bitter Clash

By FRED STABLEY

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 9. (P)—A hearing before the joint Senate and House Rules committees today on proposed repeal of the Declaration of Intentions act ended in a heated dispute involving the AFL and CIO.

The hour-long hearing was nearing its conclusion when Delegate John H. Reed, chairman of the House Labor committee, asked for the floor.

He announced himself in opposition to the repeal measure attacked CIO leadership as "blind," said "ninety-eight per cent of the AFL" was opposed to repeal, and told the 150 placard-bearing persons who had come from various sections of the state to urge such action that "you're not going to get anywhere down here."

House Speaker John S. White (D-Prince George's), who presided, rapped for order and instructed Reed to stick to the issue.

Reed said that many of the new-comers to Maryland who would be given the franchise with the repeal of the act had not paid their state income taxes or fulfilled other obligations of Maryland citizenship.

Predicts Bloodshed
"There will be bloodshed in this state when the boys come back and find their jobs taken by workers who came here for the biggest money they ever made," he shouted. Again Speaker White rapped for order as several in the audience rose to their feet.

Moffett Scores Ickes Proposal

Arabian Oil Line Not Needed, He Says

NEW YORK, March 9. (P)—James A. Moffett, oil man and former federal housing administrator, today characterized the United States as "Uncle Suckers of America" in the proposed Arabian oil pipeline deal and charged that Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes was wrong in saying there is a shortage of gasoline on the Atlantic seaboard. "Every move that Secretary Ickes makes," said Moffett, "is another step toward getting the United States government into the oil business."

In another attack on Ickes during a press interview, Moffett waved aside Ickes' recent charge that Moffett was a "playboy" and said he was still waiting for an answer to his statement last week that the Arabian plan was "wasteful."

Addressing a prepared statement to Ickes, the former vice president of the Standard Oil Company of California said:

"Every time that you, Mr. Ickes, have raised the question of shortage of oil, it has been connected with an expenditure at the taxpayers' expense."

Every Community Hit:

U. S. Battle Casualties of 162,282 Revealed in Statement by Stimson

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON, March 9. (P)—The nation's battle casualties—of which Secretary of War Stimson says "every community has its sad and honorable share"—now stand at more than 162,282.

This combines 121,458 army casualties up to Feb. 23, the latest total reported, and 40,824 of the navy up to today.

These are all types of casualties, dead, wounded, missing and prisoners of war. The dead total 37,853—20,592 army men and 17,261 of the navy, marines and coast guard. The soldier wounded are 47,318; those in the sea services 9,910.

Many Wounded Recover
These 57,228 wounded men, however, have a better chance for living than their predecessors in World War I. The army reported today that the chance for survival of American soldiers wounded in this war is nearly twice that in the First World War. Although World War I used the most destructive weapons ever invented, only 37 per cent of American wounded had died, compared with 61 in the last conflict.

There now are 35,565 Americans listed as "missing." This category includes some who never will return, some probably prisoners of war whose names eventually will be reported and probably a few who may appear someday in friendly camps or ports.

An itemized account of army casualties, covering the period through January 31, shows that the heaviest losses to the army occurred in the Mediterranean area, designed officially as "North African" theater. There the casualties amounted to 49,051 up to January 31, with 9,271 dead.

Tax Expert To Help Senators With Taxes

WASHINGTON, March 9. (P)—This notice appears on the bulletin board of the Senate's cloakroom: "Mr. Roscoe C. Chisholm, expert from the income tax unit x x x is on hand in room 9-B of the Senate office building to assist senators and officials of the Senate in the preparation of their income tax returns."

General Graves Missing in Italy

Army Force Head Last Seen Feb. 8

WASHINGTON, March 9. (P)—Brigadier General Davis D. Graves, commander of an army air force fighter wing in the Mediterranean, has been missing in action over Italy since Feb. 8, the War department announced today.

At the same time, the department reported that Brigadier Gen. Paul W. Kendall, whose assignment was not disclosed, was wounded slightly in action in Italy Jan. 22. Kendall's home is at Palo Alto, Calif.

Graves, whose wife lives at San Antonio, Tex., is the sixth general now carried on the army lists as missing in action.

Others, all Brigadier Generals, are Asa N. Duncan, missing off the European coast Nov. 17, 1942; Kenneth N. Walker, Southwest Pacific, Jan. 5, 1943; Howard K. Ramey, March 26, 1943, Southwest Pacific; Nathan B. Forrest, June 13, 1943, after raid on Kiel, Germany; and Charles L. Keearns, Jr., July 11, 1943, in Sicily.

Only one general officer is carried now as killed in action—Major General Clarence L. Tinker, who was lost in the battle of Midway June 7, 1942.

Woodring Sees Bolt in South

Rump Convention Urged in Speech

ATLANTA, March 9. (P)—Should President Roosevelt be nominated for a fourth term, Southern Democrats "might adopt the 1860 formula and hold a separate convention below the Mason and Dixon line to offer a southerner for President, former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring said today.

The Kansas banker, who resigned from the president's cabinet in 1940, said he was starting a swing through the south to seek support for the American Democratic National Convention.

Moscow Reports New Offensive

Back Sea Ports Now Threatened

By TOM YARBROUGH

LONDON, March 9. (P)—Moscow announced tonight that a new Soviet offensive had pounded a 105-mile gap through German lines in the Southeastern Ukraine—threatening the big Black Sea ports of Nikolayev and Kherson—and that 300 miles to the northwest other Russian troops had captured the "important stronghold" of Starokonstantinov and battered into the streets of the strategic junction of Tarnopol.

German Army Menaced
Hundreds of thousands of German troops in the Dnieper bend were menaced by the latest developments, announced in two orders of the day by Marshal Premier Joseph Stalin and in the Moscow communique.

The new drive, tearing head-on into the Germans from the east, was forcing them back toward regions of Southern Poland and Rumania already threatened by the Russians. Still a third action, announced by the communique, was a drive southwest of Berdichev in which the Russians captured the town of Ulanov, twenty-six miles southwest of Berdichev. This drive links with the easternmost wing of the Russian forces fighting at Tarnopol and Starokonstantinov.

Capture 340 Localities
Capture of more than 340 localities was announced today, 200 of them in the four-day action in which Stalin disclosed that Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky's third Ukrainian front forces had broken through the German front southwest of Krivoriog.

A "heavy defeat" was inflicted on nine German divisions, and the Soviet line rolled westward nineteen to thirty-seven miles across the Ingulets river capturing Novy Bug, fifty-five miles above Nikolayev, at the mouth of the Bug river, and Kazanka, seventeen miles north-east of Novy Bug, Stalin said.

Jap Stronghold Showing Signs Of Breaking Up

Marines Advance Along Peninsula

By ROBERT EUNSON

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Friday, March 10. (P)—American warships have moved into unopposed into big Sessler harbor in the invaded Admiralty Islands, marines virtually have cut Williams peninsula in two on the North coast of New Britain and once mighty Rabaul shows marked signs of deterioration, headquarters reported today. The warships along with supply vessels entered waters between Japanese-held Manus Island and American-controlled Los Negros to aid cavalrymen of the first division steadily expanding their foothold in the Admiralty group.

Marines Advancing
On New Britain, marines have overcome bitter Japanese resistance, inflicted heavy casualties and pushed three miles from Monday's landing point on the west side of Williams peninsula to within two miles of Talases on the eastern side. After reaching the town on the coast the Marines will have two more miles to go to achieve the airfield.

One hundred and seventy miles to the northeast of Talases, Solomon-based planes found Rabaul's big harbor deserted by serviceable Japanese ships and its six airdromes virtually stripped of aircraft.

Japs Caught by Surprise
A spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur disclosed today that the original operation Feb. 29 in the Admiralty Islands which caught the Japanese so completely by surprise that Monote airfield was seized in fair condition, was made by only 1,000 men, one battery of four mountain guns and one battery of anti-aircraft.

Landing soon after the four troops of dismounted cavalrymen went ashore, General MacArthur decided on the spot to send in reinforcements and go ahead with plans to seize the Admiralties.

Mickey Rooney Gets Order to Report
LOS ANGELES, March 9. (P)—Screen Actor Mickey Rooney, 22, reclassified I-A Tuesday, was recalled today for army service after passing a pre-induction physical examination. He was ordered to report for duty in twenty-one days.

Rooney, who is the divorced husband of actress Ava Gardner, was rejected for military service a year ago for undisclosed reasons.

Army in a Hurry For Her Husband
PHOENIX, Ariz., March 9. (P)—A Phoenix woman appealed to police to help find her husband's car. "He drove down to the draft board this morning and they took him so quickly he couldn't bring his home. I can't find it."

The cops obliged.

Buck Will Walk
PORTLAND, Ore., March 9. (P)—L. C. Buck, a shipyard worker, applied to the OPA for extra gasoline rations.

He received his notice to call at the office for his allotment. He did—and got one shoe stamp.

More Coal Mines Close as British Strike Spreads to Scottish Fields

By JAMES M. LONG

LONDON, March 9. (P)—British coal strike, which virtually has paralyzed the rich South Wales minefields, spread today to the Swansea anthracite region and to Scottish pits in apparent rejection of the fuel ministers' insistence upon a return to work before arbitration.

One of the miners' leaders said this ultimatum, if complied with, would "give the government a blank check."

A few workers in Monmouthshire and South Wales collieries returned to their jobs in response to urgent appeals by union leaders but by mid-day new walkouts had increased the number of strikers to 90,000 out of 100,000 miners in the entire field and had closed 165 mines.

Fourteen more mines shut down in the nearby Swansea anthracite district this morning, and 7,000 workers walked out of nine Scottish pits in protest over the same wage rate issue. With Britain's war industries being deprived of so-called needed coal and the country's entire transportation system threatened, press editorials and cartoons reflected the nation's concern.

In Commons minister of War Production, Capt. Oliver Lethbridge described the situation as serious, and an executive of the National Mine Workers' Federation, which had urged the miners to await arbitration, said the walkouts were a "veritable tragedy."

There appeared little chance of a break in the deadlock until a scheduled meeting of the strike leaders Saturday. Today's new walkouts dealt a blow to optimism engendered yesterday at a conference of miners and operators presided over by Fuel Minister Gwilym Lloyd George.

16 Jap Ships Sunk by Americans In Submarine Drive in Pacific

By HAMILTON W. FARON

WASHINGTON, March 9. (P)—An increased tempo of submarine operation against Japanese shipping to pin the enemy fleet to its bases and drive out island garrisons became evident today as the navy announced that submarines on their latest war patrols destroyed sixteen Japanese ships.

All of the new bag—one of the largest ever reported by submarine commanders after daring cruises in enemy waters—consisted of ships highly important to the Japanese in keeping their bases in operation. American submarines are now credited with a total of 477 Japanese ships of all types sunk thirty-six probably sunk and 114 damaged—an overall total of 627.

Topping the newest list was a large tanker which presumably was carrying fuel to keep enemy warship and planes operating. Each such sinking is a major blow to Japan for its tankers are becoming scarce.

Their destruction already has reached such a point that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the Pacific fleet, has said lack of tankers and their cargoes of fuel may have forced the enemy to withdraw warships from Truk, once strong Japanese base in the South Pacific.

Also included in the bag were ten cargo vessels which may have been used to move munitions and foodstuffs to near island garrisons cut off from supply lines. Five transports sent to the bottom could have been moving men as well as supplies.

Kirke L. Simpson Says:

Terrific Blows by Russians Seem Great Threat to Morale of Nazis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

Staggering to German morale as may be the air blows being dealt Berlin and the Nazi Luftwaffe by gun-bristling American bombers and their heavily armed fighter escorts, it is in southwestern Russia that the most immediate prospects of a major German military catastrophe can be traced.

Despite unseasonably early thaws, the Russians have forged a gigantic trap around anywhere from half a million to a million Nazi troops caught between the Dnieper and the Dniester rivers. The main Nazi supply line, the double-tracked Odessa-Warsaw railroad, has been cut leaving only a trio of single-track and vulnerable connections into Rumania upon which the Germans must mainly rely either for supply or to escape westward before the first Ukrainian army breakthrough in their rear to seal their doom.

Thaws Help Russians

Berlin broadcasters make no effort to conceal the gravity of that situation. The thaws in southwestern Russia, which the Germans hoped would stall this culminating Russian attack have come too late for the Nazi high command.

Instead of helping, they are impeding German operations. Roads now are hub deep in mud. Motor transport can do little to ease the supply problems for the invaders. The three minor railroads still available all cross the wide Dniester river now in flood. Their bridges are inviting targets for Russian bombers.

Reds Seize Railway

Russian seizure of a thirty mile span of the Odessa-Warsaw railroad between Tarnopol and Proskurov has done more to establish the beginnings of a broad front communist threatening Russian invasion of Rumania via the Cernauli gateway to take the foe in the rear. Now only the minor rail connection line loop southward of the main line to join the two junction points and Zimierinka junction, sixty miles below Proskurov, still link the Germans in the Dnieper-Dniester trap with their main supply base, Lemberg, in the north.

All three junctions are closely Russian invested. If they fall it means a Russian front nearly 150 miles wide less than sixty miles from the northern border of Rumania at its most vulnerable point. There is no river line above the headwaters of the Dniester covering the gap between the rise of that river and the Carpathians. That Russian threat in the Tarnopol-Proskurov-Zimierinka sector outflanks all north-south river fronts for a Nazi defense of Rumania.

General Horace Sewell, official British military commentator in this country, estimates that the three single-track railways which cross the Dniester into Rumania have a combined capacity less than half the amount required for supplying the (Nazi) divisions in the Dnieper salient. Yet he found no evidence that the German commander has yet started a general withdrawal from the Dnieper-Dniester trap.

"The German army has shown great capacity in escaping from the worst consequences of their strategic gambles," the British officer added.

Adams Signs Contract

PHILADELPHIA, March 9 (AP)—Manager Herb Pennock of the Philadelphia Blue Jays announced today he had received the signed contract of outfielder Elvin "Buster" Adams, bringing to sixteen the number of players who have accepted the club's terms.

Pennock also announced the signing of George Gaskaskas, 18-year-old second baseman of Bethlehem, Pa., high school, who will be sent to Bradford, Pa., farm club in the Pony league.

Soldier Vote Compromise Plan Is Denounced

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The Senate's federal ballot advocates renounced today a compromise service vote bill as an injustice to voters in uniform and called upon their colleagues to kill it.

In an advance display of the fireworks that will be touched off when the measure comes up Monday, Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), co-author of the original federal ballot proposal, declared the issue has been dragged into "plain, pure, partisan, Republican politics and nothing else" and Senator Hatch (D-NM) asserted the compromise "offers the soldier a ballot with one hand and withdraws it with the other."

Heated Dispute

Willis R. Jones, former deputy attorney general and chairman of the board of correction, earlier had questioned the constitutionality of the soldier vote bill without repeal of the Declaration of Intentions act, saying it "tended to restrict the right to vote as guaranteed by the bill of rights."

"It has disenfranchised many thousands of good Maryland citizens otherwise well qualified to vote," he said.

Jones suggested amending the soldier vote bill to carry out repeal of the act rather than send through a separate measure. The Senate last night had refused, 14-12, to do just that.

Sidney Katz Active

Sidney R. Katz, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland-District of Columbia Industrial Union Council (CIO), one of the organizations sponsoring the hearings, and Mrs. Durward V. Sandifer, of Silver Spring, president of the Maryland League of Women Voters, introduced most of the speakers.

Major arguments offered in favor of repeal included:

1. Maryland is the only state having such a law and consequently newcomers are either unaware of its existence or suspicious of its intent.

2. It denies the basic right to vote to more than 50,000 persons.

3. It will have a disintegrating effect on morale of new residents, many of them war workers, around election time.

4. Only eight out of 100 workers are assured of voting privileges without going home at least once, perhaps twice.

5. The absentee voting laws of state never had been developed to take care of such vast migrations of people.

In answer to a question put by Senator Wilmer Fell Davis (R-Caroline) Katz estimated that approximately 100,000 Maryland residents would not be eligible to vote under existing law. He said best estimates indicated only about 15,000 had declared their intentions to vote.

Speakers urging repeal included: Mrs. Ralph Hempstead, of the State League of Women Voters; Emmet White, of the Maryland Citizens' Committee for Democracy; Sue Goldman, of the Union for Democratic Action; Lawrence Dawson, of the CIO union at the Glenn L. Martin plant; Jack Fox, of a Martin's union; Walter MacManamon, executive secretary of a CIO union at the Bethlehem-Fairfield Shipyard, Baltimore; Glenn Ward, of a CIO union at the Fairchild Aircraft plant, Hagerstown; Fran Pinter, Ben Adams, and Larry Banashak, of Bethlehem Company, Baltimore; unions; Richard Boyden, representing an Allegheny county textile workers' union; Edward Glenn, of the Prince George's county taxicab drivers' local (CIO); and Vincent Dangelis, of Eastern Aircraft's CIO Union among numerous others.

OPA Authorizes Price Boosts for Soft Coal

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration today authorized increases up to fifty cents a ton for bituminous bunker coal produced in Alabama and southern Tennessee for sale at Gulf of Mexico and other tidewater ports.

Simultaneously, the agency announced a ceiling price hike of thirty cents a ton for the same type of ship fuel produced in seven other districts for sale at Great Lakes ports.

Coal prices to the general public are not affected by the actions. The thirty cent a ton increase for the Great Lakes trade was allowed, OPA said, to compensate for higher costs resulting from the Liles-Lewis wage agreement of last November.

Districts eligible for the higher return include:

Berlin Doomed, Says Swedish Traveler

STOCKHOLM, March 9 (AP)—"Berlin is doomed—It has ceased to be a capital or even a town," declared a Swedish traveler who reached here by air today after having witnessed Wednesday's American attack on the city.

He said Berlin citizens were under the impression the Nazi government had left the city before Christmas.

U. S. Battle

The European theater reported the second highest casualties, 13,797, with 2,419 killed. It is to be presumed that a large number of these casualties are airmen operating out of England.

Stimson said the Allies had not been stopped in their air attacks on German military strength in the homeland by enemy fighters, clouds nor fog, that "only daylight itself remained as protection for this one all-important city of Berlin." Then he added with reference to the AAF's recent daylight attacks: "and now that last protection is gone."

Browns Sign Demaree

ST. LOUIS, March 9 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns today signed outfielder Frank Demaree, recently made a free agent by the St. Louis Cardinals with whom he was a utility player last year.

Demaree has played with four National League teams, Chicago, New York, Boston and St. Louis, since 1935.

Thomas Upholds Ford Motor Co.

Insists Workers Observe Contract

DETROIT, March 9 (AP)—While high officials of the United Automobile Workers (CIO), and other officials of the union looked on, the Ford Motor Company today discharged ten men for participating in a Rouge plant disturbance in which a plant protection man was beaten and a labor relations office damaged.

Ten others accused of being among the 250 employees involved in the disorder yesterday, were suspended.

The disciplinary action came on the heels of a sharply worded letter in which Thomas called upon officials of UAW local 600, the Ford local, for "drastic and effective action" in connection with yesterday's disturbance and an unauthorized work stoppage Tuesday which he called "unjustified" and a violation of "the union's constitution and no-strike pledge."

It was the first occasion on which R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW had clamped down on wildcat strikers since the union's international executive board adopted a new strict policy for curbing unauthorized stoppages.

The company announced that six plant committeemen of the union were among the ten discharged and that five committeemen were in the group of ten "suspended pending further investigation."

Woodring Sees

ional Committee which he launched in Chicago six weeks ago.

Woodring, avowed foe of a fourth term, asserted in an interview that election of a Republican as president would be "preferable to the destruction of our democracy."

In 1860, the year before outbreak of the war between the states, Republicans nominated Abraham Lincoln for president and Democrats nominated Stephen Douglas of Illinois. But some Democrats, mostly southerners, broke away, held their own convention, and nominated John C. Breckinridge of Kentucky. The ensuing split in Democratic votes elected Lincoln.

Moscow Reports

The Russians not only cut the Dolinskaya-Nikolaev railway but the communiqué, recorded by the Soviet monitor, announced that in the fighting which began Monday 8,000 Germans have been killed, 1,000 more taken prisoner and important German war material captured, including sixty-seven tanks, 175 guns, more than 2,000 trucks and ten stores of supplies.

Kimble's Second

The Senate supported this move 17-12 and thus apparently killed the proposal to repeal the Declaration Act for this session.

See Fourth Term Politics

Although the vote on the soldier bill was unanimous, two Republicans declared they were afraid that its provisions might be employed in furtherance of a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

Senator James W. Hughes (R-Ore.) said he believed the state ballot provisions of the bill had been worked out as carefully as it was possible, but he objected to a provision which would validate the so-called federal ballot for any soldier or sailor not able to receive the state one.

"I am afraid this federal ballot was designed not to afford an opportunity to the soldiers to vote," Hughes declared, "but to afford an opportunity to vote the soldiers."

Hughes asserted that federal officials, in distributing ballots to servicemen, might not be so prompt with deliveries of state ballots, thus forcing servicemen to employ the federal ballot or not vote at all.

"I am afraid that the federal ballot was devised to afford an opportunity for the servicemen to vote for one whose devotion to America is so great that he is determined to make ruling her his life work."

Hughes said that despite his fears on this score, he so firmly believed in giving servicemen the right to vote that he would favor the bill, Senator A. Earl Shipley (R-Carroll) said his position was identical with that of Hughes.

The upper chamber finally passed seven bills, suspending the rules in two cases in the drive to adjourn by tomorrow or Saturday.

They were:

The teacher bonus bill, providing that the bonus be extended until July 1, 1945, with the state meeting seventy-five per cent of the cost; A Kent county local bill designed to give the county liquor dispensary system a complete monopoly; The state employees' bonus bill, giving qualified state employees a war-time bonus of $180;

A bill designed to correct a minor flaw in the tax sales bill; and the emergency appropriation bill to pay the expenses of the special session, not to exceed $25,000.

All the measures went to the House for its approval, but Senator John B. Funk (D-Fredrick) admitted that there was a technical error in the title of the teacher bonus bill and that after it was corrected by the House, the bill would have to return to the Senate for concurrence.

were named as Pvt. Frances H. Bundorf, Birmingham, Ala., Pvt. Florence C. Pechon, New Orleans, and Pvt. Margaret L. Franklin, Oakland, Calif. They pleaded guilty before courts-martial.

Headquarters said the two other WACs are to be tried soon.

"Lengthy and careful investigation clearly indicates," the announcement said, "that no other members of the WAC detachment are involved directly or indirectly, and that the indiscretion of the five in exchanging notes with prisoners had no connection whatsoever with the male soldiers involved in the escape of the German prisoners."

Dies Says C.I.O. Smears Congress

Gets an Ovation For House Speech

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—A "smear Congress" campaign is being conducted by the CIO Political Action committee and the National Lawyers Guild, Chairman Dies (D-Tex.) of the House committee on un-American activities charged today.

In a one-hour speech which won a standing ovation from the House, the Texan described the two organizations as largely controlled by Communists and accused them, together with the National Federation for Constitutional Liberties, of seeking to promote a political revolution by undermining the confidence of the American people in the Democratic form of government.

He was also critical of Walter Winchell, newspaper columnist and radio commentator, and of two recent books, "Undercover" and "Salvage."

Dies said his committee would report on an investigation of the Political Action committee, organized recently to help carry out the CIO legislative program. The committee was described by Dies as seeking to defeat all members of Congress whose votes do not coincide with the CIO's wishes.

He described the National Lawyers Guild, which recently assailed Dies and called for disbandment of the committee, as "a Communist dominated organization."

Dies suggested the Justice department "seriously consider" prosecuting John Carlson, author of "Undercover," for sedition.

HICKORY, N. C. (AP) — In the mornings he's professor of Spanish at Lenoir Rhyne college; in the afternoons he's a laborer at a wagon factory.

On Saturdays you'll find him in a workshop in the cellar of his home, painting water colors or doing a bit of carpentry.

With Prof. Mariano Migueles Maya it's not the desire for extra money, or work for the sake of working, but a love of humanity.

"I work at the wagon factory because I want to know people," he says. "I want to see how they live. I want to listen to them talk. I want to learn what they think about, what their problems are."

Split Session Not A Cure for Jams

MORE ATTENTION is being given to the constitutional amendment method of curing state legislative jams. It is good to note. In a letter to the Baltimore Sun, Irving C. Goldstein, of that city, advocates the method, but seeks a remedy entirely different from that suggested by this newspaper, namely, a genuine home rule provision, and his plan, in the opinion of this newspaper, would be futile.

Urging that an amendment proposal be adopted by this General Assembly and placed before the voters in the coming November election, Mr. Goldstein suggests two legislative sessions, one during January for consideration of local laws and the other during March for consideration of state measures only.

Split legislative sessions, however, would not remove local measures from the General Assembly to the local units of government, and the one suggested by Mr. Goldstein would only theoretically serve the purpose of transferring the legislative jam from state measures. In the proposed initial session it would still obtain.

The neighboring state of West Virginia had an unhappy experience with a plan of a split legislative session, ratified by the people in 1920. Excepting extraordinary sessions, all meetings of the legislature were to continue for a period not exceeding fifteen days, "during which time no bill shall be passed or rejected, unless the same shall be necessary to provide for a public emergency, shall be recommended by the governor and passed by a vote of four-fifths of the members elected to each house; whereupon a recess of both houses must be taken" for a month. Then, when the session was resumed, no bills could be introduced in either house without a three-fourths vote of elected members.

The plan was hailed as a deliverance from hastily-considered legislation and last-minute jams. But, alas, neither objective was achieved, largely because most bills were introduced merely by title, and the last minute jamming turned out to be worse than ever, so the plan was voted out by the people in 1927. So unsatisfactory was the experiment that no proposal has ever been made since to try again, even an improved plan of the kind.

No, the split legislative scheme will not cure the evil of state legislative jams in this state. What is needed, in a nutshell, is transaction of local business in the home units and transaction of state business in the state legislature.

Soldiers' Bonus and Job Opportunity

IT is obvious that something should be done for the returning servicemen to enable them to readjust themselves to civilian life with ample opportunity to exercise their natural abilities and to make a decent living. It is something, too, which cannot be put off until the war ends because thousands of servicemen are now returning from the battle fronts. Those wounded, crippled or otherwise physically broken will have the adequate care provided by a grateful nation. But others will want opportunity for employment in the fields for which their natural abilities best fit them and for a decent living therein.

When five organizations of veterans get behind a congressional measure appropriating thirty billions of a servicemen's bonus, it makes the average taxpayer gasp, if there is any ability for him to gasp after the gasping already done over the terrific cost of this global war. While Representative Lesinski, of Michigan, points out that the proposed bonus would be less than the cost of four months of war at the present rate, there is something of think about as to what the addition of thirty billions to the cost of the war might do to the country.

It is of interest to note that the American Legion, perhaps the most influential of the veterans organizations, is not backing this bill. It does not oppose the bonus principle and is seeking other benefits for veterans of this war, such as help in returning to civilian life, overcoming physical and educational disabilities and finding real jobs. But, up to the present, the Legion has taken the position that the veterans of this war should decide for themselves whether they want bonuses, in what amounts and on what terms. That seems to be a fair position.

One observer of the national scene ventures the opinion that the returning soldiers will be more interested in good opportunities to find their place in civilian life and earn their own livings, make their own way and seek prosperity in a country that can start to work out of debt rather than plunging farther into it. That seems to be the chief desire of the men according to expressions received from them by this newspaper. Of course, they will probably need some sort of lift to enable them to make the transition. But Congress can do much toward solving this transition problem by providing workable plans now for having jobs ready for the men when the productive machinery of the country is switched from war to civilian output so they will not be forced to the dire extremity of selling apples on the street corners.

More Evidence That the New Deal Is Going Out

AGAIN the Republican trend has made itself manifest. What on the basis of the early returns looked like a close race with chances that the Democratic nominee might nose out resulted in a clear-cut victory for the Republican in the special by-election in the First, or Denver, congressional district of Colorado by a plurality of some 3,000 votes. The winner was Dean M. Gillespie, automobile dealer and oil man, and his opponent was Carl E. Wuertele, retired major of the army air forces and wearer of the Silver Star and the Distinguished Flying Cross with two Oak Leaf clusters, who was discharged in January because of battle wounds suffered in the Pacific theater. The seat filled is that of the late Lawrence Lewis, and it was occupied by a Democrat since 1932.

Thus, there was provided a certain handicap for the Republican on the score of patriotic gratefulness. Gillespie campaigned on a plank advocating rapid transition to peacetime economy after the war with private industry carrying the ball. Wuertele, who was supported by James Patton, president of the National Farmers' Union, also campaigned for full employment of war veterans and a green light for private enterprise.

So it appears that the voters of this congressional district looked beyond the natural consideration of recognition for heroic war achievement to the prospects held forth for attaining the objectives advocated through the complexion of a national administration. The verdict was that they can best be obtained by a Republican regime, and this confirms what the voters have already said in eight of the ten special elections held since the election of 1942 and what they can be expected to say in the five others that are coming up. In other words, the days of the New Deal are numbered.

Fiscal Sanity Is Again Displayed

FURTHER EVIDENCE of fiscal sanity has been displayed by the House at Washington in rejecting, 136 to 54, legislation authorizing the continuation of federal participation in a nation-wide school lunch program for another year.

Opponents declared that the government was too deeply in debt to warrant such expense and that, moreover, school districts wanting the free lunch program are now in a better position than ever to pay for the entire cost. Heretofore the government has provided $1 for every $2 put up by sponsors.

The bill, offered by Representative Flannagan, a Virginia Democrat, was an amendment to an agriculture measure and would have permitted appropriation up to $50,000,000 for the lunch program.

The program was one of the depression measures for which there is now no excuse. Also, it was obviously connected with the general administration effort to seek federal control of the local public school system through the power of the purse.

Hitler, a report has it, may purge all Nazi generals who met failure on the Russian front. What does he want to do—fight this war single-handed?

We Live Three Lives

By MARSHALL MASLIN

How often have you said: "I wasn't myself when I did that?"

How often have you excused yourself in that way for a sin that shames you in a quieter moment?

But which is your real self? Which is the self you gladly claim as yours? Are you one person or are you two individuals—antagonists forever? Or are you three?

You are tired—and you are peevish.

Your head aches and you quarrel with one you love.

You have failed in something—and that meanderer self takes control.

Even your friends excuse you. They say: "He isn't himself. Pay no attention to him. He'll be sorry."

So we believe it is surely true that we live two lives and one—the better—is our own self and the other is a base metal that will not pass as the coin of humanity.

Cynics say the self that comes to the surface when a man is irritated or disturbed is the man's True Self. But the rest of us do not agree. Or if that mean occasional fellow is what we really are—then let it pass, for the hypocrisy that conceals the worse side of ourselves is a fair sort of hypocrisy indeed, and not to be despised.

But actually we live at least three lives. There is this daily external life in which we dodge automobiles and talk casually on a hundred subjects. There is the peevish life that comes to the surface when we are annoyed. . . . And far beneath is a deeply buried life like a stream that almost never comes to the light, to which we rarely bathe, to which we almost never come.

Only occasionally is the bolt shot back in our breasts and we are given leave to live that calm and perfection that is secretly ours. But that is the life toward which most of us are stumbling.

Allies Face Need Of Political Unity, Paul Mallon Says

By PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, March 9.—The visit of State Under-Secretary Stettinius to London is being played down because Mr. Roosevelt said it would make no headlines.

The official story is that he is going over to get acclimated at the British foreign office. But he is seeking more than a whiff of the climate in those hallowed halls, and if all the news about it were given out, there might be plenty of headlines.

There is no use pretending Anglo-American-Russian relations are in a settled state. Russian external policies, the Polish, French Nationalist Committee and Italian problems—all together representing practically the entire fundamental basis of world policy—are far from a common understanding.

In fact, collectively, they are in such a state that a sound contention could be made that there is no Allied political policy today (as distinct from the military policy on which there seems to be unity.)

Trend Seen Spreading

A disillusionment with Russia has disintegrated in the State department here from Stettinius on down, excepting possibly only State Secretary Hull at the top. Observers from within have noticed that trend spreading apace with Russia's repeated steps to develop agreements with each individual nation in Europe (unilateral understandings) contrary to Hull's stand against separate alliances.

Nevertheless, Hull's friends classify him as more hopeful than most of the others that the Russians are merely presenting alternatives to the world, first moving in one direction and then in the other, at one time pleasing us, and at another goading us. That these moves represent a threat and possibly a break is the more common view of other officials.

Why Mr. Roosevelt and the British are giving one third of the conquered Italian fleet to the Russians has not been thoroughly explained. No one has even hinted that we should get one-third of what the Russians conquer in this war to make matters even.

Only explanation offered here is that the Reds have sacrificed greatly—one of the highest officials saying privately the war would have ended in a stalemate, had not Russia wasted the German army. This seems to represent the official attitude.

British More Resentful

The British, however, seem even more resentful of Moscow diplomacy, if not frightened by it. If Mr. Stettinius can make any progress toward solution of this complex tri-partite relationship, he will not only get a headline, but a medal. For instance, if he could only get the Poles and Russians on speaking terms, he will have wrought a diplomatic miracle.

Furthermore, there does not appear to be even a joint understanding regarding the future of Germany. Mr. Churchill indicated to Parliament he favored partitioning that nation when he suggested Poland should be given compensating territory from Germany for what the Russians take away from her eastern frontier. No cheers were heard about that.

On the Italian problem, most of our officials, talking unofficially would like to get rid of both the king and Badoglio, and see a republic with a true legislative assembly representing all parties freely established when we get to Rome, but what Stalin thinks about that may be something else again.

Favor Lacking Here

Thus, none of the recently developed attitudes of Moscow and London, except the Finnish peace offer, has found great favor here. In fact, it is doubtful that our own action in one particular, in bringing Argentina to her senses by a strong policy, found favor in London.

If we had followed the British, we would still be running away from that situation. There are also the matters of acquiring British bases and competitive viewpoints on trade relations in which the British obviously do not like the Hull policy.

Thus the agreements which have been made and so widely advertised (Moscow, Teheran, etc.) have fallen far short of a common political understanding. You need no secret information to see that. It is apparent behind the news daily.

Jobs Make More Jobs

From the Wall Street Journal

Before an automobile can be made ore must be mined and smelted, steel rolled and transported, timber cut and cured, glass manufactured and tires fashioned. All these activities require the work of men who receive wages; they create jobs.

When an automobile rolls off the assembly line, its job-making function continues right through to the day it is finally junked. There must be men to discover and refine oil to propel it, men to build roads on which it runs, men in service stations. Its owner helps support roadside stands. He likes to go tripping to the golf course, the lakes or the mountains and in those places there must be those who serve his wants.

The mass production industries, of which the automobile is an example, furnish some millions of jobs. But only a fraction of these jobs are actually performed under the roofs of the factories.

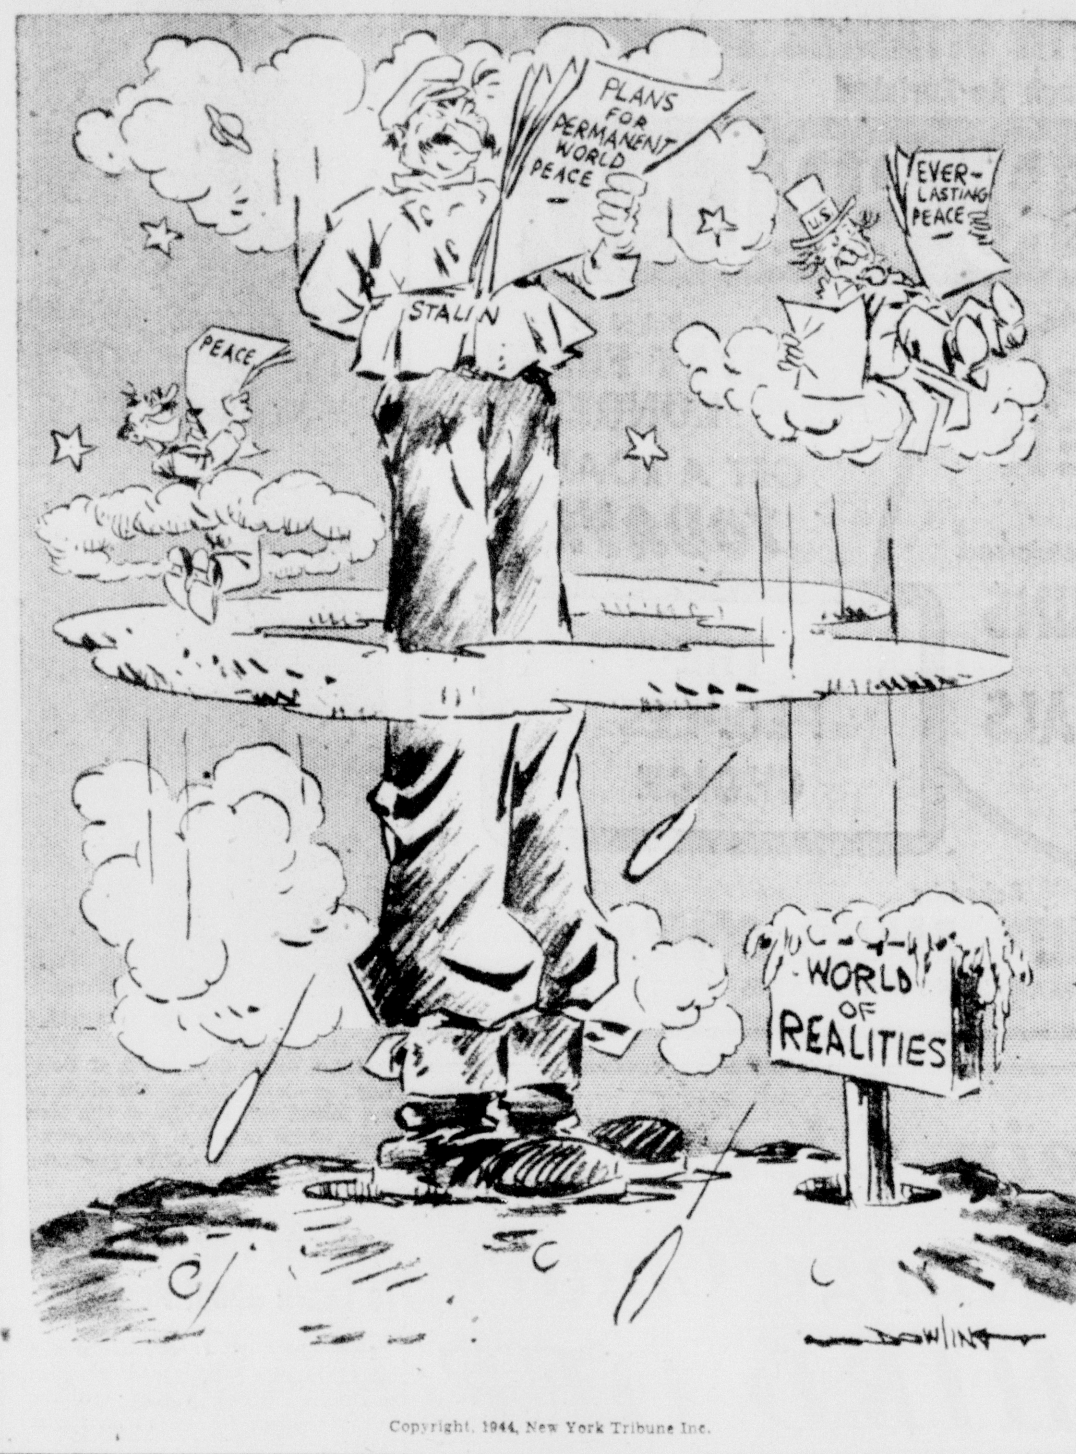

The more units of mass production that are created and sold, the more jobs will be created. The sooner this production and sale gets under way the sooner those jobs will be created. That is so obvious that it seems a little incredible that people should go about getting up complicated blueprints which amount to restriction and postponement of production.

We hear of plans for production, quotas, based on something that was done in 1939—five years ago. We hear of measures to prevent some from producing because they did not do so in some year now gone. We hear of plans to allot materials and how one producer ready to operate is to be held back until all are ready to operate.

When plans of that character emanate from those who believe in a state-managed economy, we know how to appraise them. But when they emanate from those who sincerely believe in a free economy, the most charitable conclusion is that they are based on a misconception of the employment role of mass production.

If one thinks of the automobile industry as something isolated in the economy, something that just employs so many men on an assembly line and is responsible for no employment outside of that, measures of control for a brief period may be given the color of logic. If one regards the employment role of the automobile as just beginning at the end of the assembly line, proposals for delay and restriction become a great deal worse than silly.

Soldier-Vote Measure Faces Court Test And Presidential Veto, Lawrence Says

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 9.—Will the presidential election be thrown into the House of Representatives to decide because of a possible lawsuit arising out of the soldier voting?

Some members of Congress, when asked this question, say it is conceivable that if any federal statute permitting absentee soldier votes is passed which in any way contravenes the rights of the states, the defeated candidates may challenge the result in the courts. This means that the members of Congress would probably start the litigation with respect to their own seats and this, in turn, would probably cause a string of restraining orders to be sought which might prevent the various states from certifying to the total vote cast for presidential electors.

There are many in Congress who feel that the federal government has the right to control soldier balloting, but there are others who feel that anything which the federal government may do except to help transport or collect the ballots would open up the question of validity of the ballots themselves.

The conference committee of the Senate and House has worked out a compromise which some reports say may be vetoed by the president when it reaches him. The reason is given is not the constitutionality of the measure but the belief it does not provide voting opportunities for enough soldiers.

The constitution says: "Each state shall appoint in such manner as the legislature may direct, a number of electors, equal to the whole number of senators and representatives which the state may be entitled in Congress."

The method of electing presidential electors is something which each state has hitherto prescribed. Absentee voting has always been a matter of state supervision. The federal government enters into the picture this year only because of the war situation. This has led some members of Congress to assert that the federal government can handle the voting and turn the ballots over to the states. Actually the laws and regulations determining what is or is not a proper ballot are made by the several states. Hence if any ballot is cast under direction of the federal government by reason of a law passed by Congress and this is in conflict with a state law or rule, the ballot can be invalidated.

Confusion and Delays

This means that every ballot would have to be examined and some ruling made as to whether it conforms to the state laws. Much confusion would result from these challenges and possibly there would be delays.

Under the present system whereby a president is inaugurated on January 20, there is not as much time as there was formerly after election day. Hence, in the intervening period of a little more than two months, the country would be asked to wait till court decisions could be rendered on the subject of doubtful voting. Certainly members of Congress who must take their seats early in January would not know their status by that time if they were involved in litigation as to the validity of soldier ballots.

Wrong Test Is Given

Soldiers have voted before. Back in 1916 the votes from our soldiers on the Mexican border trickled in slowly and were not counted in Minnesota, for instance, until several days after the election. In a close election a poorly worded soldier ballot bill could cause delays and embarrassments, especially at a critical time such as the country may face toward the end of 1944 and the beginning of 1945.

Congress in the compromise measure has eliminated most of the legal flaws but there are some senators and representatives who insist that a so-called federal ballot is lawful and should be adopted so that more soldiers can vote. The test being applied by the administration, it is frankly said, is whether more soldiers can vote under one bill than another, when the test really should be which bill introduces controversies that could conceivably go to the courts and mess up the whole process whereby the electors choose a president and vice-president.

Maryland Farm Musings

By the Extension Service of the University of Maryland

Victory gardens are increasingly important in our wartime food program. In 1942, 15,000,000 victory gardens were planted. In 1943, the call was for 18,000,000 and there were 20,000,000. They produced about 8,000,000 tons of food—nearly forty percent of all vegetables grown for fresh consumption in the United States. Using products from victory gardens or commercial markets, American families canned some four billion jars of food last year, according to a report from the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Look to the feet of your horses often enough to insure reasonable performance, says Joe Vial, specialist in animal husbandry for the University of Maryland extension service. Blacksmiths are not too plentiful these days, he points out, and if they were, the smith is often blamed for not doing a good job when in reality neglect before calling upon him is partially, if not entirely, responsible.

The acreage of hay planted to alfalfa could be greatly expanded in Maryland by seeding it in mixtures rather than alone, says John W. Magruder, specialist in agronomy for the extension service. He adds that the cost of seeding would likewise be reduced.

Even if all waste of food cannot be eliminated, much of it can be prevented. Since the farmer has not let the public down but has produced food at all-time record levels, the public must not let the nation down but must conserve food more carefully than ever before.

The Percheron Association of Frederick County announces a sale of fifty draft horses on the fair grounds at Frederick March 20, starting at noon.

Uncle Sam Guards New Ration Tokens As He Does Coins

By CENTRAL PRESS

WASHINGTON.—Those ration tokens which began circulating late in February are under as much government supervision and protection as coins made in the United States mint. OPA has taken every precaution to guard against theft of the red and blue fiber tidbits, which at the Osborn Register Company, in Cincinnati, where they are made, the plant itself has operated under heavy guard.

The company's contract called for the screening of all unsealed windows so finished tokens could not be passed outside; twenty-four-hour armed guard service; institution of electrical protective systems; inspection by government agents and elaborate safeguarding of the dies from which the tokens are made.

The provision extended to all parts of the company where tokens or raw materials for them are stored, used or packaged. The dies must be photographed both before and after being used and become the property of the government.

Each die has special code letters to identify the tokens stamped out. Search of employees working on the token contract—mostly women—also was required. When the women workers objected plant men had them roll dice to determine which ones would submit to search as they left the plant.

One the rolling the highest number became the "victim." Only about one in ten of the employees were searched under this system and the workers took it in good spirit.

Firms Know They Are Watched Up

Finland is nearing the end of her collaboration with the Nazis. The little Scandinavian country is expected very soon to sever her ties with Hitlerite Germany and quit her hapless war against Russia.

War weariness and a sharp realization that further resistance will only make peace a more bitter pill to swallow, has brought Finland to the end of her second war with Russia in four years.

To diplomatic Washington and London, peace terms offered Finland by the U. S. S. R. are surprisingly generous, and both English-speaking countries are urging that they be accepted forthwith. In fact, there is ground for belief that Finland already has decided to accept the terms, and her big problem is avoidance of a major war within her borders after an armistice.

At least seven German divisions are known to be stationed in Finland at the present time, and Russia is determined that they shall not be allowed to escape as the result of her peace negotiations with Finland.

Other problems, including Russian insistence that leaders in the Finnish war be punished and banned from future political life, are also matters still to be thrashed out. While these problems are knotty they are not considered insurmountable and diplomatic expectation of an armistice declaration mounts hourly.

Home-Building Hit

Despite the pent-up dreams for homes, WPB officials are frankly pessimistic about any large-scale building in the near future.

The answer—a very tight lumber shortage.

Even with the end of the European war, one expert said, the military requirements of lumber, plus needs for rehabilitation abroad, will continue at a high level. Military demands for shipping, crating and similar uses are estimated at nearly half the supply this year.

Lumber will be the governing factor on resumption of construction, it was pointed out, even though other materials are getting easier. Thus it may be some time after the war before the lid comes off and private home building can go ahead full blast.

War Jams Florida Meca Far Beyond Normal Population Causing Plea That Visitors Avoid It

By HENRY C. NICHOLAS
Central Press Correspondent

MIAMI, Fla.—Florida is witnessing a modern miracle, one which no Floridian dreamed was possible. Miami is asking visitors to remain away this winter, or at least to be sure of their accommodations before coming.

There have been years in the past when Miami was so crowded that people slept in parks and automobiles, while an optimistic chamber of commerce continued sending out tons of publicity urging others to come to this city.

But now Miami is telling prospective visitors that it is filled to capacity, and that they had better not come unless they pack a tent or sleeping bag in their baggage.

Matter of Goodwill

This campaign to warn visitors of the existing situation is backed by the local newspapers and many of the leading citizens, who appreciate that the foremost industry of Miami is the entertainment of winter visitors, whose goodwill may be imperiled if they visit this city during the next few months.

Although it has few civilian wartime industries its population has increased so rapidly that almost certainly it is now among the leading thirty cities in the United States—that means its present population is past the 275,000 mark.

The almost complete lack of living accommodations in Miami and nearby Miami Beach is due to the large number of hotels and apartment houses which remain in the possession of the Army and Navy.

Of the 545 hotels and apartment houses taken over by our armed forces following Pearl Harbor, over 300 are situated in Miami and Miami Beach! While many of those in other areas have been returned to their former owners, virtually all of those in this area have been retained.

In spite of this, this is probably the biggest season in Miami history. The race tracks and night clubs are having a banner year, the beaches are crowded and it is next to impossible to find a seat in a restaurant. The Roney Plaza, the largest ocean-front hotel in Miami Beach, is sold out through March, and is turning people away by the hundreds.

The local newspapers are publishing instances of what they call "outrageous abuses," and are demanding that the rent administration take sterner action and bring some semblance of order out of mounting chaos.

The Miami Herald tells of one Chicagoan, unable to obtain his regular accommodations, who called up nine Miami Beach hotels. One hotel quoted a price of $50 a day, but refused to give a reservation before being given a check for the first week's accommodations. The other eight hotels were booked to capacity.

How It's Worked

One favorite method used by apartment hotels to get around the ceiling price is described as follows: The tenant pays the ceiling price, but in addition he is required also to rent one of the living room chairs at the same price that he pays for the apartment. The chair must be left for the next tenant when the lease expires.

But in some mysterious manner the racing industry seems to have had no difficulty, either in obtaining transportation here or living accommodations after arrival.

The hundreds of horses, jockeys and trainers arrived on schedule. The many thousands of race track followers, who are also the best customers of the night clubs and gambling resorts, also seemed to have found no difficulty in obtaining transportation, apartments and hotel accommodations.

On the opening day of the racing season these sporting visitors were present in larger numbers, and bet larger amounts than ever before in the history of the town.

Big Offensives Loom, Says Knox

Urges Extension Of Lend-Lease

WASHINGTON, March 9 (P)—Secretary of the Navy Knox told Congress today the Axis now knows the only remaining chance it has for victory is Allied disunity and he said this last enemy prop can be knocked out by extension of the lend-lease act.

"We can be certain of victory if we continue to pull together," the secretary told the House Foreign Affairs committee which is considering legislation to extend the mutual aid act for another year beyond June 30.

Critical Days Ahead

Testifying that the Allies are "on the threshold of critical offensives" that will dwarf all activities of the past, Knox said:

"If our Allies are to do their best for us as well as for themselves, they must have confidence that the pipeline of lend-lease supplies will be kept full. As their partners in the United Nations, we must make certain that they can throw their full power into the fight."

With Knox's testimony, the committee concluded open hearings on the bill and Chairman Bloom (D-NY) predicted the measure would go to the House floor by a week from next Monday.

Discussing post war control of air and naval bases, Knox said that he believed that question "goes far beyond any question of the lease-lend settlement," adding:

"The question of air fields and naval bases cannot be considered on a bilateral basis as a lend-lease problem alone, although the solution of our problems of national security may well give rise to lend-lease benefits."

To enforce peace after the war, he said cooperating nations each should have a responsibility of protecting a certain area and therefore bases will be necessary from which to operate.

On more present matters, Knox declared that before Japan can be brought to unconditional surrender the United States must have bases from which it can attack by air and "that means land operations from the China coast."

AP Features

PHILADELPHIA — "WANTED: Accountants, insurance men, office workers, bankers, clerks, for victory shift, 6 to 11 p. m., helping to operate small machines on gun parts Monday to Friday. Rates start seventy cents per hour."

That ad in a Philadelphia paper was the last resort of the Norris Tool and Machinery Co. The army had asked, last November, for large numbers of anti-aircraft devices but searches for machinists only provoked hysterical laughter from employment agencies.

That ad also was the answer. It brought in the bankers, and architects, and accountants, and it put nasty calluses on soft, white hands. Most of the nineteen men selected for the job hardly knew enough about machinery to set a mouse-trap, but regular machinists from the day shift turned teacher. In a few days, the novices were delighting themselves with parts shaved to the halves of thousandths of an inch.

Accountant John Hendrick, whose wife always repaired her own electric cords, feeds two milling machines at once now. And banker John Becker, who wasn't quite clear on the difference between a carburetor and a transmission, is a bearcat on the electric file.

The army's order is being filled, and telescopic gunsight mounts to help clear the sky of Stukas are rolling out.

Funkhouser Says He Wants To Be Governor, Not Party Leader

WINFIELD, W. Va., March 9 (P)—Raymond J. Funkhouser, already at open odds with Republican National Committeeman Walter S. Hallanan, told constituents today that he only wants to be governor and has no designs on the Republican party leadership.

"I wish to have it understood I have no desire nor do I intend to assume the role of leadership of the Republican party in respect to its political activities," asserted the Charles Town business man in his second formal speech of the primary campaign.

Hallanan came out in support of Mayor D. Boone Dawson of Charleston for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in a speech denying what he said were statements by Funkhouser that the committeeman had failed to criticize the New Deal and the Democratic state administration of Governor M. M. Neely.

In his address to Putnam county Republicans, Funkhouser referred again to "party bosses," and said "they have banded together in a close league with several of their same ilk in the opposing party."

Fan Baby Commandos

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (P)—Herbert Robinson, charged with ill-treating his two-year-old son, told the court he was bringing up all his children to be commandos and the two-year-old had to have the same treatment. He was fined $14.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 2 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent uric acid passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there's something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Duan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Duan's Pills.

AUTO PILOT

HERE IS an early first glimpse of America's famed electronic automatic pilot for high altitude bombers undergoing its final "tilt test" at the Minneapolis-Honeywell lab in Minneapolis. Oiled by a hypodermic needle, the pilot is phenomenally accurate since an error of one mile at high altitude means a bomb will miss its target by 360 feet.

around the Nissen huts in

Liberator base where Stewart commands a squadron of the big planes, a lot of the time you'd know he was around.

A tall, gangling airman in leather flying cap, flying jacket, olive drab trousers and arctic walks into the intelligence office, pulls a chair up to the brightly-burning little belly stove and reads a magazine for an hour without saying a word. No one takes any particular notice of him. It is Jimmy.

But when he jumps into a conversation with several of his comgleam, his mouth a contagious smile. Out come dry humor and sizzling wisecracks which leave his pals in stitches.

Once the talk got around to the beer shortage. There were cracks about the possibilities of falling back on hair tonic.

Stewart, with a glint in his eye, felt the stubble on his jaw and observed:

"I find I'm having less and less use for my aftershave lotion."

Stewart dislikes attention because of his movie career. He wants his crews to get credit for their dangerous work and shuns the spotlight himself. His heart is with his men, and when there are casualties, he feels it deeply.

As a squadron commander, he has a job of heavy responsibility in directing the operations of 15 bombers and the 150 men who take them into combat, led frequently by himself. The squadron commanders take turns going on raids, under air force regulations. Stewart would go on every raid if they'd let him.

A Fighter's Fighter

When missions are on, he and other squadron and group executives often work until 2 a. m., catch a couple hours' rest and get up at 4:30 a. m. for the briefing at which the fliers receive instructions for the day's operations.

Fellow airmen rarely refer to Stewart as an actor. In joining the army air corps, he set out to be a good soldier. The extent to which he succeeded is shown by the fact that officers and GIs here call him a "real soldier." That's about the highest compliment you could pay.

Little everyday incidents around the camp have won him this reputation. Like when the group was leaving its base in Sioux City, Iowa, Stewart said:

"Let's clean this place up."

He set the pace himself—grabbing a broom and going to work on the litter.

The word salary comes from the Latin, salarium, the part of a Roman soldier's wages he received in salt.

Trio Is Arrested In Hotel Fracas

Charles Goodnow, 60,
Lain Avenue, Receives
Suspended Sentence

Two men and one woman received suspended sentences in juvenile court yesterday on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minor children after a hearing before Judge Elizabeth M. Menefee, on condition they refrain from further disturbance and association with one another.

The trio was arrested early yesterday morning following some trouble in the Hendricks hotel, Lain Avenue, by Lieut. James E. Van and Officers Edwin Lilly and P. C. Jenkins.

Has 25 Calibre Pistol
The police reported they found the two men and the woman at the hotel and that one of the men, Charles Goodnow, 60, who operates a barber shop at the hotel, attempted to dispose of a .25 calibre automatic pistol he was carrying. Goodnow was given a hearing in trial magistrates court yesterday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and was sentenced to ninety days in the county jail after he pleaded guilty.

Sentence Is Suspended
Magistrate Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., however, suspended the sentence in view of the fact that Goodnow testified he was in "fear of harm" from Broadstock, a much larger man. Goodnow made no attempt to use the weapon, police testified.

Police pointed out that the dispute arose over the same woman who was the cause of a fight at the hotel in February when Goodnow, who suffered two black eyes then, slashed Clarence E. Broadstock, 36, of 23 Lain Avenue, in the neck with a razor. Goodnow is now being held under $500 bond for the grand jury as a result of his action.

MISSSES DOOLITTLE AND TORBET STAR IN "JUNIOR MISS"

Highlighted by outstanding performances by Dorothy Doolittle and Jean Torbet, "Junior Miss," annual senior production, played to a full house at Allegany high school last night.

Under the direction of Miss Orpha Bonita Pritchard, the scintillating comedy of modern youth will be repeated tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the school auditorium.

In their roles of fourteen-year-old twentieth century wisdom, both Misses Doolittle and Torbet exhibited keen interpretations of dramatic situations with unusual ease and naturalness.

Tonight's audiences may also view with interest Miss Beverly Beckman, who as Ellen Curtis in the recent Broadway hit, handles skillfully some of the heavier drama in the play.

Pacing the cast in character interpretations are Charles McCollay and Miss Rosemary Perrone as mother and father of "Junior Miss," while among the brightest spots in the production is a brief collegiate sketch featuring William Eisenberger.

Convincing performances were also given in last night's showing by Sarah Lancaster, debutante sister, and William Street, male romantic lead. The play has a strong supporting cast composed of James Hines, Edward Martin, Alma DeBouck, Charles Caldwell, George Stein, Robert McDowell, William Thayer, William Darrow and Edward Chandlee.

Average Soldier Has Two Girls

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — A survey of soldiers at Louisiana State university reveals that the average soldier writes regularly to two women, although one GI corresponds with fourteen.

"We don't use carbon copies," one soldier explained. "Different letters to suit different personalities."

Personal stationery is preferred to tablet paper. As for pictures, they said women should make them natural and skip glamour. Kisses at the end of letters are outmoded.

MACEIO, Brazil (AP) — Residents of this northern coastal city have a campaign to gather cigarettes and entertainment for their soldiers and sailors guarding the coasts of Brazil. A public fiesta has already contributed to the latter while a Recife football game will raise funds for "Cigarettes for Combatants." A book, magazine and newspaper campaign is also underway.

Triplett Trouble for the Axis

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — When it comes to providing sons for the armed forces, Charles Triplett, who works here in the Schenley plant, lives up to his name.

His three sons, triplets in name only, are scattered on three continents. Charles, 32, is with the Army in Australia. George, 28, enlisted in the army in 1939 and is now in Ireland. The third Triplett, L. T., 21, is stationed in California with the Marines.

Good Bus Brakes Bad Break to Cop

ARKANSAS CITY, Kas. (AP) — Highway Patrolmen Jimmy Little and Joe Nance were testing brakes on a bus, one riding in the bus and the other behind in a patrol car to observe results.

A motorist crowded between the bus and the patrol car. The police car driver knew the bus would stop quickly and tried frantically to edge his car in front of the intruder's to avoid a collision.

He succeeded, just as the bus stopped. The patrol car smashed right into it.

Sinkwich Accepted For Army Service

PORT McPHERSON, Ga., March 9 (AP) — Frankie Sinkwich, former All-America halfback at the University of Georgia and star last season for the Detroit pro football Lions, was accepted for general army service today after a pre-induction physical examination.

Capt. Purser Hewitt, post public relations officer, said Sinkwich would return to his home at Youngstown, O., where he has been keeping books at his father's tavern, to await call by his Clarke county (Ga.) draft board. He registered while a student at the University of Georgia.

Sinkwich was discharged from the marine corps last summer for physical disability after enlisting as an officer candidate. He played last season with the Detroit Lions and led the National football League in punt returns.

George Washington was the owner of the first Pennsylvania oil well.

"I'D ROLL AND TOSS—IT SEEMED I JUST COULDN'T GET TO SLEEP"

Skelton, W. Va., New River Coal Co., Man Says "World's Tonic Brought Relief"

Mr. Rufus Hawks

Another Coal miner tells of gratifying relief brought by this Famous World Tonic. He is Mr. Rufus Hawks, House No. 3, Skelton, W. Va., near Beckley. He says: "I was in awful condition because of the many ailments brought on by constipation. Things got so bad that I could hardly eat at all and often indigestion attacks would last so far into the night that I seemed to have nightmares during my sleep. Gas bloating and sour stomach caused an awful lot of misery and heartburn was another bad problem. Dizzy, bilious spells would come on and I began having many painful nervous headaches. I had a bad taste in my mouth and my tongue was coated at times.

"I've been using World's Tonic for several weeks now and it brought me the best relief from constipation and its resulting ailments that I have ever enjoyed. The upset stomach condition has been so relieved that I'm able to sleep soundly and long at night. I'm not bothered now by gas, bloating, heartburn or sour stomach and nervous headaches. (Note: Report of relief of World's Tonic, to the extent that constipation may be a contributing cause.)

Skillful blending of roots and herbs enables World's Tonic to help distresses which constipation may bring on. World's Tonic (Trade Name) Not sold as a General Tonic but as a splendid laxative and stomachic.

Get World's Tonic at Ford, Keech, Peoples, Truitt, Cumberland Drug and all first class Drug Stores. Caution: Use only as directed. (P-464)

Evelyn Eaton Started Theatrical Career Early

That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. and singing Eaton family of Broadway note. Evelyn made her first footlight appearance in the opening scenes of "Memete" at the Times Square theater on Forty-Second street in New York City.

"From that show until I was six, I was a bum, just hanging around the apartment working crossword puzzles," says Evelyn when she explains that her next job was with her two brothers in "Lean Harvest," with Nigel Bruce. The children were the only American members of an all-English cast.

Miss Eaton, 18 now, got her role in "Where Are Your Children?" when Producer Jeffrey Bernard saw a test she made for Samuel Goldwyn. William Nigh, veteran director, handled the filming of the picture, which stars Jackie Cooper with Gale Storm, Gertrude Michael, Patricia Morison, John Littel and Addison Richards.

House of Delegates Praises Reporter

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 9 (AP)—The House of Delegates paid "commendation and tribute" today to Thomas M. O'Neill former staff writer for the Baltimore Evening Sun and now the Sunpapers' chief of bureau in London.

The lower branch of the Assembly unanimously adopted a resolution offered by eight delegates which paid tribute to O'Neill's past coverage of legislative proceedings.

The newspaperman for many years was a political writer for the Evening Sun. He went to London last summer.

Boy Swallowde Up By Mine Subsidence

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 8 (AP)—Seven-year-old Robert Adrain was swallowed up by the earth in a mine subsidence today, only 300 feet from the spot where Jule Ann Fulmer 2, was killed in a similar cave-in a month ago. But Robert lived to tell about it.

Walking home from a barber shop, Robert plunged ten feet into the earth when the paving opened beneath him, but he was buried only to his waist. The terror-stricken youngster scrambled to safety before passersby reached him. Almost simultaneously, another cave-in occurred nearby, but no one was near the spot.

Across the Susquehanna river in West Pittston, a subsidence which started last night continued today, practically destroying eight houses and damaging eight others. All of the residents of a two-block area fled.

Representatives of eight towns in this area held a meeting in nearby forty fort tonight to draw up a program for ending the menace.

MacLeish Excavates Golden Friendship From America's Neglected Literary Mines

By JOHN SELEY
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK. — The unexploited Anaconda of the New World is not a gold mine, thinks Archibald MacLeish, librarian of Congress, but the neglected shelves of its thousands of libraries. He has undertaken to demonstrate how these mines may be worked.

He demonstrates by means of the radio, and his project is called "American Story," playing each Saturday at 7 o'clock. This is a part of NBC's University of the Air, but its function is not to show club-thumbed amateurs how to draw novels for fireside consumption.

"I think one reason the Americans find it so difficult to get along, one with the other, is that we don't understand our common background," MacLeish says quietly.

ARCHIBALD MACLEISH... Tells The American Story...

He talks quietly, dresses quietly, and yet he clinches a point with a riveter's technique.

"From Alaska to the tip of South America," he continues, "every stage of life was the same. The Pilgrims landed in Massachusetts, with the sea behind them and the wilderness in front. But the same thing happened at Olinda, in Brazil.

"Each community felt out the shoreline, and infiltrated slowly into the wilderness. Each had wars with Indians, and each established frontier after frontier. All the settlements went through the colonial stage in which the government was foreign, and the people already American. Each felt the urge toward free development—and each became free through revolution.

"This is the common 'American Story,' and it seemed to me that radio was a common medium that could be adapted to the telling of it. Then I realized that a great deal of material lay hidden in our libraries, known only to scholars—I mean the actual, contemporary accounts of the beginnings, not modern synthesized history."

Mr. MacLeish means that in the Library of Congress, for example, lies not only the original pamphlet which introduced the world of Amerigo Vespucci to the old world, but most of the manuscript itself. And so with Garcilasso de la Vega's "Royal Commentaries," which describe the struggle of Spaniards and the Inca as these appeared to a contemporary, not as "sifted" by hundreds of historians.

Radio was chosen because it was possible to use sound effects (not primarily music, either) to carry the listener back into the mood of the period, and the commentator as a kind of Greek chorus to explain the background of the actual excerpts themselves.

"It seems to work," says MacLeish, "but we haven't produced the last word in the field, not by a good deal. I'd be very happy if we broke the ice, however. And I think that the unsuspected treasures lying unused in many libraries ought to be mined by people outside the library field."

Hopkins at Mayo Clinic for Checkup

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Harry L. Hopkins, close friend and advisor of President Roosevelt, arrived late today at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn., for a check-up on his physical condition.

Hopkins has been in Florida for several weeks. He went there after an attack of influenza and a stay in a naval hospital here.

Hopkins, chairman of the Anglo-American munitions assignment board and former secretary of commerce and Works Progress Administrator, has been in somewhat poor health for years. He has been at the Mayo clinic before for a serious operation, and Presidential Secretary Early said he had returned there "for the purpose of having himself checked over."

Joan Afraid of Her Mother, Witness Says

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—Former Movie Director John Lan-

gan's present wife testified in federal district court today that 11-year-old Joan Langan was afraid of her mother, Joan Manners, British movie actress. Divorced several years ago, Langan and Miss Manners are fighting for custody of the girl.

Mrs. Langan, saying she wants the child because she loves her, added that Joan feels that "her daddy is just about everything."

Once in Los Angeles, Mrs. Langan said the girl grabbed her hand and pulled her into a doorway to hide from a blonde woman walking toward them in a street. Joan said "she was afraid it might be Lorna (Miss Manners)," Mrs. Langan testified.

The stepmother said she and her husband had tried to make Joan "feel less bitter" toward her real mother.

Brooklyn Loses Herman and Head To Armed Forces

Dodgers Have Only 18 Players Sure of Opening the Season

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers will have to get along without the services of Billy Herman, veteran second baseman, and Ed Head, rated No. 2 pitcher, this year, it was disclosed today by Branch Rickey as he outlined plans for spring training.

Rickey said that in a telephone conversation Herman informed him he had been accepted for service and soon would be in the navy. Head, who already had signed his Dodger contract, wrote Rickey he had been accepted for the army at Shreveport, La.

The loss of these two standbys takes another sharp tack in the already depleted Dodger ranks. Including Herman and Head, the regular Dodger roster lists thirty-three players, and of these only eighteen can be definitely counted upon, with the other fifteen either definitely not available or in the doubtful class.

Included in the regular roster are nine 4-F's, but these are balanced by nine players currently rated 3-A. There are two 1-A's, three already in the service or about to go in, and one player who will not be available because he still is in school and expects to enter the service when he gets out.

Manager Leo Durocher will not lack quantity in his material at Bear Mountain. Approximately seventy-five athletes will be there at one time or another, including about thirty-three boys whose pro ball experience, if any, has been limited to leagues of low classification.

The squad will be divided for the early drills, with the scouts taking care of the real rookie squad. The first group of athletes will report next Wednesday.

Rickey has given permission to Whitlow Wyatt, Paul Waner and Johnny Cooney to remain in the south for their conditioning for the first two weeks, and is recommending to catcher Mickey Owen that he remain at his farm near Springfield, Mo., for a like time.

Rickey also said pitcher Bill Lohrman had informed him he would take his army physical next Monday and that Lloyd Waner had been reinstated and had been mailed a contract.

SPRING TRAINING BUT NOT FOR MAJOR LEAGUES

Interstate League Will Play Schedule Of 140 Games

BALTIMORE, March 9 (AP)—President Arthur Ehlers of the Interstate Baseball League, expressing optimism and reporting the player situation better now than a year ago, announced today a 140-game schedule to start May 3.

All contests, except some holiday games, are scheduled for evening hours. The season will end Sept. 12, with the Governor's Cup play-offs to follow.

On the opening night, York, Pa., will play at Hagerstown, Md.; Lancaster, Pa., at Wilmington, Del.; and Allentown, Pa., at Trenton, N. J.

Ehlers said this year's schedule for the Class C loop was just about the same as last season, when the Interstate teams also played 140 contests.

The six teams plan to start training about the middle of April, setting up camps in their home towns. "Surprising as it may seem," Ehlers said, "league members are definitely optimistic." He said the player situation "looks better now than it did at the same time last year," with more men already signed.

The clubs are depending heavily upon 17- and 18-year-olds, men who have received medical discharges from the services, and those classified 4-F in the draft. Some also plan to use war workers in home games, or games close to home, as they did last year.

26 Athletic Players Sign 1944 Contracts

PHILADELPHIA, March 9 (AP)—Connie Mack said today that twenty-six players have returned signed contracts with the Athletics but that outfielder Bill Burgo and pitcher Luke Hamlin—the latter a right-handed pitching veteran from Toronto—may be missing when the club begins spring training Monday at Frederick, Md.

Breaking a silence that usually has been maintained until the players actually reported, the 81-year-old manager said Burgo and Hamlin are holdovers—a term he did not apply to pitcher Bobo Newsom, who has said he wants to see if he can get in shape before he decides whether to play.

"The contract Hamlin sent back called for $4,500," Mack said, "and that is better than thirty-three per cent above what Toronto paid him last season. He says it's not enough."

"Burgo wants more money, too, and I don't care much if he stays out. He got $900 from us last year for four months' work and I offered him $3,000 for this season. He's a funny man. Every time he has a good day he lets you know what he's getting, just as if I didn't know."

The SPORT TRAIL

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Every male adult with some dark secret in his past, such as being exposed to football, had best be on his guard. He has a price on his head and he no longer can trust even his neighbors and best friends.

Responsible for this necessity for shade-hulling and furtive whispering is the Cleveland Football Club, which is the National League, which is making gestapo agents out of everyone who can use $50 by offering that reward for the capture, dead or alive, of citizens who might be sentenced to play football with the Rams.

To our knowledge this is the first time an effort has been made to round up athletes by putting a bounty on them, like they were crows or gophers.

The nearest approach to it was the braintrust of a New York football Giant scout who last year inserted an ad in an out-of-town paper in his effort to line up material. One of those "bright young men, easy hours, bright future" affairs.

We don't know just how many were lined up through this medium, but we understand there were certain difficulties involved in accepting such voluntary candidates.

One burly young man showed up and they have yet to discover if he can play football. He reported faithfully three times a day, and by a happy coincidence it always was meal time. He'd stoke himself with the substantial fare required by athletes, and then disappear until the next meal. It was three days before the coaches were sufficiently familiar with the new men on the squad to realize something was wrong and that the familiar face at the table wasn't familiar on the practice field.

Colleges, in times gone by, often were not above letting a little cash trickle out if it would bring back some boys fresh out of high school who had studied hard on Saturday afternoons in the fall from 2:30 to 5, but these transactions always were very much hush-hush, and without benefit of a middleman. That is, the boys got the funds direct, and there was no agent's commission or reward money involved.

The reward idea for the apprehension and conviction of men wanted for football isn't so bad at that, the manpower situation being what it is. The age limits in football aren't so elastic as they are in baseball, and the football clubs can't go about signing 40- and even 35-year-olds, as your average footballer is through for most of the time the baseballer should be at his peak.

It will take a lot of scurrying about to locate enough 4-F's in the age bracket of, say, 18 to 32, to fill out a pro football league.

Carpenter Replies To Student Council Of Johns Hopkins

PHILADELPHIA, March 9 (AP)—Bob Carpenter, president of the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, came right back tonight at the student council of Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, which accused his outfit of "lifting" the nickname—Blue Jays—which he and his colleagues have used as their tag for sixty-eight years.

"Why, they haven't won a ball game in twenty years, have they?" said Carpenter. "I saw their football team once, and boy, what a ragged outfit!"

"But, honestly, I have the highest respect for Johns Hopkins. So I'll write them a letter and explain that as I've always admired the Blue Jays and its scrappy qualities, we expect to do something for it and incidentally give Hopkins a hand by making the students proud of the nickname."

Thomas Gets Draft Data on Players

BALTIMORE, March 9 (AP)—General Manager Tommy Thomas of the Baltimore Orioles reported today after checking the draft status of his prospective players that thirteen are classified 4-F.

Of the remainder, said the head of the International League club, four are in 3-A, five are 1-A and three hold 2-B cards.

Thomas said he sent draft questionnaires to thirty-five players. He received answers from twenty-five, and most of the others are youngsters not yet subject to selective service.

Girl Basketball Averages 34 Points

CHINA, Tex., March 9 (AP)—There is considerable fuss and flurry when a basketball player rolls up 300 points in a season, but Barbara Self, 16-year-old forward of China high school's unbeaten Clippers, gets that many in fifteen games.

Barbara has played in thirty-four this year and averaged thirty-four points per game for a total of 1156. And she still has four games to go.

The Clippers have won sixty-six straight games and have taken seventy-four out of their last seventy-five.

Two-Day Regional Tournament Opens At Keyser Tonight

Keyser Golden Tornado and Rowlesburg Meet In Feature Battle

TWO-WAY REGIONAL—SPITS. KEYSER, W. Va., March 9.—The Keyser Golden Tornado and the Rowlesburg High River Lions, sporting classic records, will clash tomorrow night at 8:30 on the Potomac State court here in the feature battle of the Region Four West Virginia tournament program.

The Tornado and the River Lions, the strongest teams in the four-school tournament—on paper at least—were matched for an opening-round battle by the luck of the drawing. The winner will be a top-heavy choice to turn back either Thomas, high or the Charles Town High Purple Panthers, who collide in tomorrow's other clash at 7:30 in the finals scheduled Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

Keyser has won its last twenty starts, including three games in the sectional tournament staged here last week, and boasts a record of twenty-two victories and only two reverses. The Golden Tornado trimmed Piedmont 39-31 in the sectional final.

Rowlesburg, tutored by Homer Brooks, made an invasion of Cumberland, Md., earlier in the campaign and after topping the LaSalle High Explorers, Western Maryland and Cumberland scholastic champions, had a long winning string shattered by Allegany, of Cumberland. The River Lions spurred into the final period to turn back Kingswood 27-23 in the sectional final at Kingswood.

Thomas, a 24-20 upset winner over the Parsons High Panthers in the finals of the Parsons sectional, won seven games and dropped twelve, including four to the Panthers during the regular campaign.

Charles Town, in capturing the Martinsburg sectional, rolled to an easy 40-23 victory over the Shepherdstown High Cardinals in the finals, making no effort to score in the final period.

The Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE
(Released by North American Newspaper Alliance)

Bakshi and Savold No young heavyweight ever had a better chance than Joe Bakshi, the mauling minor from Pennsylvania. With Louis and Conn in the army and with Bivins headed in that direction, the road ahead should look promising.

In beating the over-stuffed Tami Mauriello, Bakshi at least showed that he could punch and take a punch, but he had certain possibilities. He also showed that he had eight-round legs, a bad sign in a fellow only 22-years-old.

It would have been much better for Bakshi's future if he had gone south, put in two months of hard training, at least two months, getting in better shape and picking up a number of things that today he doesn't know, and probably never heard about.

But the lure of quick money, on his and Mike Jacob's part, has turned into a danerous gamble, if Lee Savold is about one third of what he was at his peak.

One of the sharpest observers I know figures that the Savold of a year or so ago would stop Bakshi, under his present training conditions, in two or three rounds. Savold isn't what he looked to be some time back, but he is still an experienced fighter who can punch.

Bakshi has certain possibilities. He is young, strong, big enough, aggressive, game and a fair puncher. This is a strong foundation on which to build. He should beat Savold, but it is no part of a sure thing, and a bad beating now would set him back a long day. Beating a fighter in Mauroli's physical and mental condition wasn't much of a test.

There are practically no boxers or ringmen left today who have any ambition to learn, or to improve, or to work at their trade as Corbett, Tunney, Dempsey, Louis, Leonard and others did in past years.

The Matter of Balance They were wondering why Beau Jack, with the upper torso of a welterweight, couldn't punch a lick. Power all goes back to a matter of balance. Any good golf instructor will tell you that balance at the top of the swing is essential when it comes to getting any distance or control.

Bobby Jones, Walter Hagen, Gene Sarazen, Byron Nelson, Sammy Snead and Ben Hogan all had this to a marked degree. Babe Ruth had it. Babe worked for a long time on the foot position that would give him what he needed. Ted Williams had the best balance at the plate I've seen in years. Bill Tilden had the same.

Beau Jack has nothing that even resembles balance. He is never set, off-half-way for any solid punch. His physical condition isn't what it was six months or a year ago by a wide margin. And physical shape was his main aid.

One punch delivered from a balanced start, is worth twenty light jabs and flicks tossed out by a jumping jack. Montgomery is just a fair, run-of-the-mill, boxer. He caught Beau Jack on the down grade, a steady slump that started some time back.

Montgomery at least fights from a much better balanced stance and this gives him much more power than Jack can show today. As much as Jack Dempsey once weaved and bobbed, he was usually set when he let fly with his left hook. Joe Louis was always set to use either a left or a right hand.

Mel Ott's Foot Action There has always been considerable comment on Mel Ott's ability to hit so many home runs, swinging from one foot. The main answer here is that Mel never swings from one foot.

A short while back I asked Mel about this so-called phenomenon. "You get most of your power," Mel said, "from the back foot, whatever the game. If you are a right hander, this comes from the right foot. A left-hander gets his from the left leg and left foot. When I start my swing I lift my right foot to be sure that I am set and balanced on the left. But if you watch closely enough, you'll see that my lifted foot is on the ground again before the bat reaches the ball. This gives me my right leg to hit against."

The trouble with the average golfer or the weak hitting ballplayer is that he keeps too much weight on the forward foot through the swing. This destroys the chance for power.

ALLEGANY ENDS SEASON AT JOHNSTOWN TONIGHT

The Allegany High Campers will bring their 1943-44 basketball season to a close tonight when they meet the Fernside High Yellow Jackets at Johnstown, Pa., in a return battle.

The West Siders, turned back by LaSalle's Explorers in their last outing, have won twenty games while losing three. The Alleganians hope to sweep the two-game series with the Yellow Jackets, who bowed 32-16 to the Campers early in the campaign.

NEW YORK, March 9 (AP)—Frank Leahy, Notre Dame football coach, will show America's overseas soldiers "how the Irish lost as well as how they won," on his imminent ninety-day tour of war front camps for the U.S.O.

Leahy, here awaiting his overseas assignment, said today he was taking a film of "1943 Highlights of Notre Dame Football," to show the boys.

"The film," he said "shows the scoring plays in the Notre Dame games, as well as the plays leading up to the touchdowns. Yes, we even have the scoring plays in the Green Lakes game, in which the Sailors beat us."

Edwin R. Swick And Eagles Lodge Sued for $60,000

Action against Elkins Man and Aerie Follows Fatal Accident

Two suits for damages totaling $60,000 were filed in circuit court yesterday against Aerie No. 2344, Fraternal Order of Eagles, Elkins, W. Va., and its alleged agent, Edwin R. Swick, also of Elkins, as a result of the fatal injury on December 24, 1943, of Clifford L. Dawson, Route 1, Westernport, when the pick-up truck he was driving was struck in the rear by an automobile, police said was operated by Swick.

First of the suits against the lodge and Swick is for $30,000 and is filed by Dawson's widow, Mrs. Nora May Dawson, and their seven children, under provisions of Article sixty-seven, Annotated Code of Maryland, better known as Lord Campbell's act. It is for the support of the widow and children who would ordinarily have received it if Dawson had not been killed.

The second suit is for $30,000 and is filed against the lodge and Swick by Mrs. Dawson as administratrix of her husband's estate. It is for expenses caused by reason of hospital treatment, doctor bills, medicine, medical services and funeral expenses incurred by Dawson's death.

Contain Two Counts

Both suits are filed with two counts. The first count in each suit is against both the lodge and Swick, while the second count in each is against Swick alone.

According to the suits, Swick was an agent of the Eagles lodge and was empowered by the lodge to drive his car from Elkins to Cumberland and return in performing his duties.

On December 24, the suit states, Swick was driving west on Route 26 between McCool and Westernport when, two miles west of McCool, he allegedly operated his car "carelessly, recklessly and negligently" and struck the rear end of the motor vehicle being operated in the same direction by Dawson.

Swick's car hit Dawson's truck with "tremendous impact and driving force" according to the bill, with the result that Dawson was seriously injured. He died December 26 in Potomac Valley hospital, Keyser, W. Va.

Deprived Of Support
Dawson, the bill continues, was the sole support of his wife and their children, Allen Dale Dawson, 19; Wanda Frances Dawson, 17; Austin Lee Dawson, 15; Zane Thomas Dawson, 12; Sarah Elmer Dawson, 10; Gene Newton Dawson, 8; and Barbara Ann Dawson, 4.

Because of Swick's reckless and wrongful act, the bill declares, Mrs. Dawson and the children have been deprived of the support which they had received and would have continued to receive had Dawson not been killed.

The suit asserts that the death of Dawson was caused by the negligence of the defendants, agents and servants, and points out that he died in haste.

Morgan C. Harris is attorney for the plaintiffs in both suits.

Following the accident last year, Swick was arrested and subsequently indicted on a charge of manslaughter at the January term of circuit court. He was fined $750.

Lynn C. Lashley Is Named Member of Insurance Committee

Lynn C. Lashley, executive vice president of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Cumberland, has been appointed a member of the 1944 Fidelity Bonds and Insurance Committee of the United States Savings and Loan League. ## Clopton Assumes B. & O. Post Here

Exley's Successor Began
Railroad Career at Wheeling in 1916

Edward J. Clopton, former division engineer of the Akron division, Baltimore and Ohio railroad, has taken over similar duties on the local division as successor to Howard L. Exley, who has been promoted to Baltimore.

A native of Washington, Rappahannock county, Va., Clopton has been in the service of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad continuously with the exception of the period during the First World War when he served overseas as a first lieutenant in the field artillery.

Clopton started his railroad career in the engineering corps at Wheeling twenty-eight years ago and the following year he joined the army.

He was employed at the general office, Baltimore, from 1918 to 1923 when he became supervisor of track in Philadelphia. From 1927 to 1937 he was assistant division engineer in Baltimore and from 1937 to 1942 served as Monongah division engineer with headquarters in Grafton, W. Va. Since 1942 he has been division engineer in Akron, Ohio.

The newcomer to Cumberland's B. & O. family is married and has a son 13-years-old.

FORMER RIDGELEY SOLDIER IS SHOWN WITH BOMBER CREW

Pvt. Harold Franklin Hartman, 21, former Ridgeley, W. Va., high school basketball star, only son of the Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Hartman, Wiley Ford, W. Va., was shown in a group picture which appeared in the Cumberland News showing the crewmen of a Flying Fortress upon its return to England from a bombing trip over Germany.

The young soldier's father, who was in the NEWS office yesterday, said he, as well as a number of his friends, are certain that his son is one of those in the picture, although he did not know his son was in England or that he was a member of a Flying Fortress crew.

The minister said the last letter he received from Harold was a month ago and that it was written in Italy six or seven weeks before it arrived at Wiley Ford and until he saw the picture he believed his son was still with the American army in Italy.

Harold Hartman was graduated from Ridgeley high school in the class of '42 and was a star member of the 1942 basketball team. He drove a truck for a bakery for several months before entering the army about fourteen months ago.

Hartman was sent to Fort Hayes, Ohio, after being inducted into the army and was also stationed at Camp Wheeler, Ga., and at Shenandoah, Pa., before going overseas. He arrived in North Africa seven or eight months ago and then was later transferred to Sicily and went from there to Italy.

Special Meeting Of Shrine Patrol Is Called

A special meeting of the All Ghaz Shrine Patrol has been called by John Morgan, captain, for 9:30 o'clock tomorrow evening at the All Ghaz Shrine Country Club. Morgan, who has been captain of the patrol for the past twenty years, said last evening that he is resigning as captain and his successor will be elected.

Other officers serving with Morgan are George Brown, first lieutenant; Joseph Hart, second lieutenant; and Harold Bloom, secretary.

Following the business session an entertainment program will be presented featuring moving pictures of the war, to be shown by Harold Wickard. At the conclusion of the entertainment a buffet supper will be served.

Establishment of Lasting Peace Termed Greatest Problem Today

Need Strong Will for Peace, Not Just Desire,
Dr. E. E. Church Says

There must be a strong will for peace—not just a desire—if we are ever to have a lasting peace, Dr. E. E. Church, president of the Potomac State school, Keyser, W. Va., told members of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club in discussing "resources for peace" at a meeting held yesterday in Central Y.M.C.A.

Asserting that all pay lip service for a long permanent peace, the speaker said that a lot of us must forget our narrow prejudices in politics and ideas and forget that the party is bigger than anything else. No party, he said, has a monopoly on the big men of the country or on the men of fine qualities and fine virtues.

Boyd entered the army in April 1943 and was sent from Fort George G. Meade to Fort McClellan, Ala., where he took his basic training. He was sent overseas last September.

Boyd, a machine-gunner, has just received word from the War Department that his son, Arthur L. Boyd, was wounded in action somewhere in Italy.

Pvt. Boyd, a machine-gunner, went to Italy from North Africa last November and had served on the Italian front until he was wounded.

When a motorist is issued supplementary ration tags after new tags have been placed on his automobile, these ration books will carry the new numbers which in turn should be written on the new coupons.

LaVale Residents To Be Questioned On Street Marking

Questionnaires To Determine Interest Will Be Sent to 300 Persons

Questionnaires will be sent to 300 residents of LaVale by the Civic Improvement committee of the chamber of commerce in an effort to help determine the amount of interest there in a proposed chamber project of marking streets and numbering houses.

Decision to take this step was made at a meeting of the Civic Improvement committee, John F. Rodman, chairman, yesterday afternoon at the chamber offices.

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the chamber, said that investigation has shown that materials to properly mark the streets here cannot be obtained until after the war.

There is a definite demand for improvement in designation of locations in Cumberland, Smith said, although the extent of interest among residents of LaVale is unknown. The questionnaires will be sent out to help determine that.

The lack of designation of streets and house numbers is a serious thing Smith pointed out, and affects mail deliveries, parcel deliveries and the like.

Under the proposed street-marking project, aside from in the city streets would be designated from the city limits beyond Allegany Grove.

Even though investigation to date has shown that proper materials for marking the streets cannot be obtained until after the war, Smith said the study is being continued. He added that painting of street names on curbing is not considered satisfactory.

Remarking of streets and numbering of houses, he said, is a tremendous task and would take about a year to complete.

Pvt. Freeman L. Simons, Route 3, Bedford road, is a member of an American ordnance unit "somewhere" in England which built its own camp according to a news release received here from the headquarters of European Theater of Operations.

They had a muddy field in the midst of some woods to start with, but now a group of United States Army ordnance soldiers have a well-built camp, a huge parking space and a jeep assembly line hidden among the trees.

This unit, made up of men skilled as mechanics but unskilled as engineers, used hundreds of tons of brick and cinders to make "hard standing." From the crates that the jeep parts came in the men built a mess hall, half a dozen huts and several utility buildings.

With the crated jeep parts rolling in, and an order to assemble them at once, the ordnance men did—using the tools found in the jeep tool boxes. They made other tools out of scrap, even going so far as to make the delicate instruments one officer used to repair his broken watch.

The news release says they set a record that still stands for the number of jeeps they assembled in the first few hectic days.

Daniels denied that he was intoxicated but did admit that he had "several beers." He said the lights from Trooper Hart's car shined into the rear view mirror and blinded him. The state trooper exhibited a quart bottle of beer that was found in Daniels' car.
